INFORMATION ABOUT SECURITY BACKGROUND CHECK

According to the Swedish Law of Security and protection (SFS 2018:585) a security background check must be performed on the person who requires entry to Ringhals or access to classified documents at Ringhals.

The security background check aims to show if the person is reliable or not. The purpose is to protect the nuclear power plants against espionage, sabotage or terrorism. It is based on references, interviews and register controls showing that the person is not registered in the police records. During the time of access to Ringhals follow-up can be made.

There are written instructions concerning security background checks. The information will be handled confidentially.

External personnel who haven't worked at Ringhals during the last 12 months, should repeat the Security background check and the register control.

For detailed information please contact the Security manager at Ringhals:
Carl-Gustav Renmarker,
